THROWING AWAY

THE TAXES

Elsewhere in this house we reported an Ottawa despatch to the Toronto Globe giving the detailed mismanagement by which a hundred thousand dollars or more of public money has been thrown away during the past summer in connection with the forwarding of supplies and equipment for the Canadian Government.

Were it not that the money comes out of his pocket, the Canadian tax-payer might find a kind of patriotic exultation in the knowledge that his Government seems to have discovered the most stupid way of squandering money yet devised on a continental scale, and that the Canadian Government is crediting itself with having distanced all credit in the spending line.

As the task of constructing the terminals at Port Nelson is still ahead of them it is to be supposed that the amount which the Ministers have frittered away during the past summer will be forgotten as soon as they return to Ottawa in connection with the famous "Boycott" which will cast to the winds before the shipping facilities and harbor improvements have been finally completed and thrown open for use.

THE AGE OF WAR STILL HERE.

It is surely a trick of fate that a government headed by Woodrow Wilson should be so far off the mark in its policy of threatening an armed invasion of a neighboring country, and that the duty of preparing and officially delaying the threat should fall to the lot of the famous lecturer on "The Prince of Peace."

Wilson and Bryan are the last two men to be suspected of wishing to provoke a world war, and one would have found it necessary to deliver an ultimatum whose alternative is a war of investment surely proves a demonstration that the dawning of the million sum has not yet superseded the age in which war is both necessary and, upon occasion, justifiable.

That such prominent and unsavory persons as these two have found it necessary to deliver an ultimatum whose alternative is a war of investment surely proves a demonstration that the dawning of the million sum has not yet superseded the age in which war is both necessary and, upon occasion, justifiable.

THE GOVERNMENT'S OPPORTUNITY.

Since September 15th the C.P.R. has hauled 70,000,000 bushels of grain from the prairie fields to the ports at the head of the lakes. That is a splendid achievement altogether creditable to the organization, management and resources of this great railway system, and no doubt most gratifying to the farmers along its line who have thereby been enabled to turn their crop into money early in the season.

Figures are not available showing what amounts the C. N. R. and G. T. P. have taken forward, but these must have also been large, for there has been as little complaint as there has been in relation to their territory as in that of their older rival, in short the handling of the crop, so far, has reflected credit upon all the companies, and could the movement be kept up at the present rate there would be little or no complaint of slowness in forwarding grain, or of difficulty in getting grain ready for the wants of the harvest.

The railway companies however cannot do miracles. So long as the lakes are open they can rush forward grain as fast as the available sailing stock can do good management will permit. But the lakes are closed for three out of these days, and when that occurs it can only be expected that the terminals at the lake ports will quickly fill with grain and the congestion finally work back along the rail-way line until, about January, the local elevators at the initial shipping points will be standing full, as they were last January, and the grain movement come to a full stop.

As parliament is to assemble in January the members should be getting under way just about the time the grain movement comes to a stand. Then will be the time for the Government to come to the rescue. The United States maintains a duty of ten cents per bushel against Canadian wheat because the Canadian Government maintains a duty against U. S. wheat. The duty against U. S. wheat does not pay any good, and by keeping up the tariff against Canadian wheat it is only adding to the cost of wheat southward. So long as the wheat can go east this shutting of the southern gates is not so noticeable, though it does cut our farmers out of a few cents per bushel on their grain. But when the eastward movement has ceased, the grain must go south or go nowhere.

SYSTEMS ARE IMPOTENT

The uselessness of looking for good government to systems of government, and not to men, is the standing moral of Mexico—and of the other Latin Republics in Central and South America. Mexico has a constitution in respects better than that of the United States. She has some other republics in the Indies and south of it. It is hardly surprising to say that there is not a republic in Central or South America whose governmental system is not in some respects—and on paper—an improvement of the one under which the people of the American Union are governed.

Naturally so. These republics came into existence during the last century. Each founded its constitution upon the model of the United States, and each incorporated into its constitution provisions which seemed designed to move full control power in the hands of the people, and to better secure the exercise of that power invariably in the interests of the people.

But are the people of Mexico better governed than those of the United States? Obviously not. Nor are those of the other Latin Republics. They have had the incomparably excellent governmental systems which they have devised! As these republics have, almost without exception, better governmental systems than that of the United States, so they are, absolutely without exception, worse governed than the people of the United States. Nowhere probably within the entire civilization is there a more governed people than the best governed people south of the Rio Grande.

Does anybody doubt that the failure of the republics in question to get good government is an inability to get the right men in the right places, and not a failure to devise fine, lasting systems of government? Once the right men get in the places, and keep them, undoubtedly the most obviously mis-governed nations would be the best governed nations in the world. And undoubtedly had the people of these nations put their faith in the virtue of governmental systems and devoted themselves consistently to the selection of men best fitted to govern, they would drop like flies. Freedom, liberty and contentment to which, with all their cunningly devised constitutions, they are strangers.

A Story of Bungling Without a Parallel in Canadian History

Ship Chartered By Government at Ottawa Returns From Hudson Bay With Cargo Which Could Not Be Lightened—Loss to Country $100,000—Laborers Forfeited Contracts & Other Than Stay.

TORONTO, Nov. 5.—The Ottawa correspondent of the Globe sends the following dispatch:

"A steamer has come out from Hudson Bay this foggy day by steamer, and men who have been employed on the steamer have been returned to Ottawa in the Hallway, have been returned to Ottawa. They tell a story of mismanagement, waste and bungling, which will evict waste of tens of thousands of dollars of the people's money, probably the largest sum ever spent in the history of government administration in Canada."

At least within the last month a number of government-chartered ships sent to Port Nelson with valuable cargo, among which was a valuable cargo of timber. On the arrival of these ships there were less valuable cargoes, and for the most part they were lightened at great expense and after a long delay. It took the Boethie, under the inadequate facilities provided, nearly a week to unload the cargo. The Alcator ran ashore at the mouth of the river, but got off again without damage.

REGINA, Nov. 5.—Rev. Robert Rogers of Calgary will be the official for the Regina-Edmonton Rugby semi-final Saturday. Rogers is showing great form in practice and victory is confidently expected.

The officials have been appointed and tonight or early tomorrow morning will start for Regina to do battle with Fred Hitler's braves in the first round of the semi-finals. Reports from the Queen City indicate that the team there is stronger than ever and it will be a difficult one to beat.

However, the Eskimos are in as good or better shape than when they played the Calgary Tigers in the final of the Alberta title last year and will do well to the Saskatchewan champions as they did to the Tigers. If the Eskimos are defeated, it will be because of their lack of any lack of effort on their part.

Since the same with Calgary last Saturday the team has been practising faithfully and the improved play which has been brought to light some weaknesses and every player does something to merit it.

SOUTH AFRICAN CRICKET TEAM ARRIVED IN NEWCASTLE

London Star and Dramatic News—In their struggle with the Englishmen setting this tour from South Africa, the English players almost deserted. The new players almost throughout. Since the last English team, under Jimmie Shand, giant hitter, excellent right-hand bowler, and most genial and kind of men, had just retired, S. H. Hartley, G. C. White, have retired, and A. G. Faulkner, J. E. Vosler, and H. G. O. Smith, the leaders of the 1897 tour, have made their home in England. S. J. Pepler, the power of the Test team, and the other English players in England. It is indeed difficult to see how South Africa stands even an ordinary side. The Englishmen who have already taken part in Test cricket, white with the team of at least seven, and the English cricket band has rung for some years past. But South African players have done such fine work that anyone who knows anything that anyone who knows anything will think more of maturing before backing the tourists not to lose a Test match. In any case the last between the two famous and comparatively unknown novices will be watched with interest.

The Varsity tennis club is going to stage a tournament next week. All the tennis clubs have received and the tourney which starts this week is expected to be a smash hit.
